

program. I can definitely see this as a valuable characteristic of the program design for you because of your demanding work schedule with non-traditional hours.

Please feel free to contact me at any time about the above information or if you would like information that I did not include.

Kind regards,
Nancy

The Federal Trade Commission's "Do Not Call" law went into effect October 1, 2003. A provision of this rule allows us to call you for a period of 90 days from your initial inquiry. After that time, we are not allowed to call a prospective learner if they are on the "Do Not Call" list. Because Capella University supports this legislation and your right to privacy, we are seeking consent to call from all of our prospective learners, not just those who have put their names on the "Do Not Call" list. I respectfully request your permission to contact you by phone.
